Attorneys for Plaintiff

NEW YORK STATE SUPREME COURT
WESTCHESTER COUNTY

D.W.,

Index No.: _____/____

Plaintiff,

COMPLAINT

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA and WESTCHESTER-PUTNAM COUNCIL,

Child Victims Act Proceeding
22 NYCRR 202.72

Defendants.

Plaintiff, by and through his attorneys, the Marsh Law Firm PLLC and Pfau Cochran Vertetis Amala PLLC, respectfully alleges for his complaint the following:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Starting in the early 1900s, the Boy Scouts of America (“BSA”) knew that its Scout leaders, volunteers, and members were using their positions to groom and to sexually abuse children. By 1935, the Chief Scout Executive of the BSA told the New York Times that almost 1,000 men had already been removed from Scouting because they “undertake to deal with sex matters and become morbid on the subject and sometimes give way to temptation and develop practices which make them degenerates.”

2. The BSA refers to its internal files on such men as its “perversion” files. Since that 1935 report in the New York Times, the BSA has tried to keep the “perversion” files a secret. Even worse, for many years the BSA had a policy of destroying “perversion” files even though the files could have helped the BSA understand how so many sexual predators were able to use its Scouting program to groom and to sexually abuse children.

3. The BSA has largely succeeded in keeping the “perversion” files hidden from the public, including Scouts and their parents. While not much is known about the files after 1985, the files that were not destroyed show that the BSA created at least 1,123 “perversion” files between 1965 and 1985 – an average of more than one new “perversion” file a week.

4. While the sheer number of Scout leaders who have been accused of molesting children is striking, particularly given the large percentage that either pled guilty or were found guilty, the number of their victims is overwhelming. Many of the files reflect Scout leaders who allegedly abused multiple children, sometimes more than twenty or thirty children.

5. The BSA refuses to voluntarily release the rest of its “perversion” files, but its own liability expert in another case testified that the files from 1944 through 2016 contain the names of 7,819 Scout leaders and volunteers who have been accused of child sexual abuse. If each accused Scout leader and volunteer abused five children, which is likely a conservative number, the total number of their victims would be close to 40,000.

6. Despite decades of knowledge that its Scouting program was a magnet for child molesters, the BSA failed to take reasonable steps to protect children from being sexually abused.

7. Even worse, the BSA actively concealed the widespread sexual abuse of young boys that occurred as a direct result of its supposedly “safe” program and “trustworthy” Scout leaders and volunteers. For example, in 1972, the Boy Scout Executive who oversaw the “perversion” files asked the other Scout Executives to keep the files confidential “because of the misunderstandings which could develop” if the public learned of the files.

8. Based on the BSA's wrongful conduct, a reasonable person could and would conclude that it knowingly and recklessly disregarded the abuse of children and chose to protect its reputation and wealth over those who deserved protection. The result is not surprising: for decades thousands of children were sexually abused by Boy Scout leaders, volunteers, and members. The Plaintiff in this lawsuit are some of those children who were sexually abused because of the BSA's wrongful conduct.

II. PROCEEDING IN ACCORDANCE WITH CPLR 214-G AND 22 NYCRR 202.72

9. This complaint is filed pursuant to the Child Victims Act (CVA) 2019 Sess. Law News of N.Y. Ch. 11 (S. 2440), CPLR 214-G, and 22 NYCRR 202.72. The CVA opened a historic one-year one-time window for victims and survivors of childhood sexual abuse in the State of New York to pursue lapsed claims. Prior to the passage of the CVA, Plaintiff's claims were time-barred the day he turned 22 years old. The enactment of the CVA allows Plaintiff, for the first time in his life, to pursue restorative justice in New York State.

III. PARTIES

10. Plaintiff D.W. is an adult male who currently resides in Frankfort, New York.

11. While he was a minor, plaintiff D.W. was a victim of one or more criminal sex acts in the State of New York. Since such criminal violation is the basis for this action, plaintiff D.W. is entitled to the protection of Civil Rights Law 50-b and will file a motion asking this Court for permission to proceed using a pseudonym.

12. In the alternative, plaintiff D.W. will seek a stipulation from the defendants agreeing to enter into a protective order which will ensure that his identity is protected from the public while allowing the defendants full access to information necessary for their defense.

13. Upon information and belief, the BSA is a Texas corporation authorized to do business in New York with its principal office in Irving, Texas.

14. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA conducted business as the "Boy Scouts of America" or the "Boy Scouts."

15. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA authorized local councils and local organizations to charter, sponsor, and operate Boy Scout Troops, Cub Scout Troops, and other types of Troops throughout New York, including plaintiff's troop.

16. The BSA, the local councils, and the local organizations would collectively select the leaders and volunteers of each Boy Scout Troop and Cub Scout Troop in New York, including the leaders and volunteers of plaintiff's Troop. The BSA and the local councils also would collectively select the leaders, counselors, and volunteers of each Boy Scout Camp, including Camp Siwanoy.

17. However, the BSA retained and exercised the ultimate authority to decide who could be a leader or volunteer of any Boy Scout Troop or Cub Scout Troop, including the leaders and volunteers of plaintiff D.W.'s Troop when he was sexually abused. The BSA also retained and exercised the ultimate authority to decide who could be a leader, counselors, or volunteer at any Boy Scout Camp, including the leaders, counselors, or volunteers at Camp Siwanoy when plaintiff was sexually abused.

18. The BSA also had the right to control the means and manner of the staffing, operation, and oversight of any Boy Scout Troop, Cub Scout Troop, other type of Troop, including plaintiff's Troop, as well as the staffing, operation, and oversight of any Boy Scout Camp, including Camp Siwanoy, when plaintiff was sexually abused.

19. In exchange for BSA's name, programming, and endorsement, the leaders, volunteers, and members of every Boy Scout Troop, Cub Scout Troop, or other Troop affiliated with the BSA in the United States, including New York, would pay the BSA an annual membership fee, including the leaders, volunteers, and members of plaintiff's Troop when he was sexually abused.

20. In exchange for the opportunity to participate in the BSA's programming and activities, including attending Camp Siwanoy, the child members of every Boy Scout Troop, Cub Scout Troop, and other Troop affiliated with the BSA in the United States, including those in New York, would pay the BSA an annual membership fee, including plaintiff when he was a child member.

21. Upon information and belief, Dave Rigby ("Rigby") was a Boy Scout leader or volunteer that the BSA used and relied upon as a Scout leader or volunteer to serve the Boy Scouts in plaintiff D.W.'s Boy Scout Troop. In addition, BSA used and relied upon Rigby as a camp counselor at Camp Siwanoy.

22. During the time that Rigby served as a Boy Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer for the BSA, he used his position to groom and to sexually abuse plaintiff D.W.

23. To the extent that the BSA was a different entity, corporation, or organization during the period of time in which Rigby used his position as a Boy Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer to sexually abuse plaintiff D.W., such entity, corporation, or organization is hereby on notice that it is intended to be a defendant in this lawsuit.

24. To the extent the BSA is a successor to a different entity, corporation, or organization which existed during the period of time during which Rigby used his position as a Boy Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer to sexually abuse plaintiff D.W., such predecessor entity, corporation, or organization is hereby on notice that it is intended to be a defendant in this lawsuit.

25. All such BSA-related entities, corporations, or organizations are collectively referred to herein as the "BSA."

26. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times defendant the Westchester-Putnam Council, Boy Scouts of America (“Westchester Council”), was a New York corporation organized under New York law that transacted business in Westchester County.

27. Upon information and belief, the Westchester Council is currently a corporation organized under New York law with its principal office in Hawthorne, New York.

28. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council was a local council of the BSA that acted as an agent of the BSA as to the Boy Scout Troops, Cub Scout Troops, and other Troops under its jurisdiction within the BSA, including the Boy Scout Troop of plaintiff D.W. when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby.

29. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council conducted business as the “Westchester-Putnam Council” or the “Westchester Council.”

30. Upon information and belief, Dave Rigby was a Boy Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer that the Westchester Council used and relied upon as a Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer to serve the Boy Scouts at Siwanoy Camp.

31. During the time that Rigby served as a Boy Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer for the Westchester Council, he used his position as a Boy Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer to groom and to sexually abuse plaintiff D.W.

32. To the extent that the Westchester Council was a different entity, corporation, or organization during the period of time in which Rigby used his position to sexually abuse plaintiff D.W., such entity, corporation, or organization is hereby on notice that it is intended to be a defendant in this lawsuit.

33. To the extent the Westchester Council is a successor to a different entity, corporation, or organization which existed during the period of time during which Rigby used his position to sexually abuse plaintiff D.W., such predecessor entity, corporation, or organization is hereby on notice that it is intended to be a defendant in this lawsuit.

34. All such Westchester Council-related entities, corporations, or organizations are collectively referred to herein as the “Westchester Council.”

35. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA and the Westchester Council owned and operated Siwanoy Camp located in Wingdale, New York, and they hired, supervised, and retained the staff, leaders, and volunteers who operated, coordinated, and supervised the camp, including David Rigby.

36. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council used the camp to promote and benefit their Scouting program, including during the times that plaintiff D.W. attended the camp and was sexually abused at the camp, and both defendants generated revenue from the camp operations, including fees paid by D.W. and his family so he could attend the camp and participate in its activities.

IV. VENUE

37. Venue is proper because the Westchester Council is a domestic corporation authorized to transact business in New York with its principal office located in Hawthorne, New York.

38. Venue is proper because Westchester is the county in which a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to each plaintiff’s claim occurred.

V. STATEMENT OF FACTS AS TO PLAINTIFF D.W.

39. Plaintiff D.W. repeats and re-alleges the allegations regarding the BSA and the Westchester Council from the “Introduction” and the “Parties” sections, above, including the fact that the BSA knew for decades that Scout leaders, camp counselors, and volunteers were using their positions to groom and to sexually abuse children throughout New York.

40. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Westchester Council, including the Boy Scout Troops, Cub Scout Troops, and other Troops in the geographic area that the BSA assigned to the Westchester Council.

41. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Westchester Council, and held out to the public its agents, servants, and employees as those who managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Westchester Council.

42. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA was responsible for the hiring and staffing, and did the hiring and staffing, for many of the leadership positions of the Westchester Council, including those positions that were responsible for ensuring that plaintiff D.W. and other children who participated in Scouting activities were protected from the danger of child sexual abuse.

43. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA was responsible for and did the recruitment and staffing of volunteers for the Westchester Council, including those positions that were responsible for ensuring that plaintiff D.W. and other children who participated in Scouting activities were protected from the danger of child sexual abuse.

44. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA controlled the policies and procedures of the Westchester Council, including any policies and procedures regarding the danger of Scouts being sexually abused by Scout leaders, camp counselors, or volunteers and how to protect children from that danger.

45. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA held itself out to the public as the owner of the Westchester Council.

46. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA materially benefited from the operation of the Westchester Council, including the services of Dave Rigby and the services of those who managed and supervised Rigby.

47. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby, including its leaders, camp counselors, and volunteers.

48. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the BSA, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby, including its policies and procedures requiring the sexual abuse of children.

49. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Boy Scout Troops, Cub Scout Troops, and other Troops in the geographic area of New York that it was assigned by the BSA, including the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby.

50. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby, and held out to the public its agents, servants, and employees as those who managed it, maintained it, operated it, and controlled it.

51. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council was responsible for the hiring and staffing, and did the hiring and staffing, for many of the leadership positions of the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to, as well as the camp counselors at Siwanoy Camp, when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby.

52. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council was responsible for the recruitment and staffing of volunteers for the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby.

53. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council held itself out to the public as the owner of the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby at Siwanoy Camp.

54. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council materially benefited from the operation of the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby, including the services of Dave Rigby and the services of those who managed and supervised Rigby at Camp Siwanoy.

55. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby, including its leaders and volunteers.

56. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times the Westchester Council, its agents, servants, and employees managed, maintained, operated, and controlled the Boy Scout Troop that plaintiff D.W. belonged to when he was sexually abused by Dave Rigby, including its policies and procedures requiring the sexual abuse of children.

57. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times Rigby was a Scoutmaster, camp counselor, or volunteer of the BSA.

58. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times Rigby was on the staff of, acted as an agent of, or served as an employee or volunteer of the BSA.

59. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times Rigby was acting in the course and scope of his position with the BSA.

60. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times Rigby was a Scoutmaster, camp counselor, or volunteer of the Westchester Council.

61. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times Rigby was on the staff of, was an agent of, or served as an employee or volunteer of the Westchester Council.

62. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times Rigby was acting in the course and scope of his position with the Westchester Council.

63. When plaintiff D.W. was a minor, he registered with the BSA and the Westchester Council and paid them a fee to participate as a member of one of their Boy Scout Troops and to attend their Boy Scout camp.

64. At all relevant times, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, held Rigby out to the public, to D.W., and to his parents, as their agent.

65. At all relevant times, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, held Rigby out to the public, to D.W., and to his parents, as having been vetted, screened, and approved by those defendants.

66. At all relevant times, D.W. and his parents reasonably relied upon the acts and representations of the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, and reasonably believed that Rigby was an agent of those defendants who was vetted, screened, and approved by those defendants.

67. At all relevant times, D.W. and his parents trusted Rigby because the BSA and the Westchester Council held him out as someone who was safe and could be trusted with the supervision, care, custody, and control of D.W.

68. At all relevant times, D.W. and his parents believed that the BSA and the Westchester Council would exercise such care as would a parent of ordinary prudence in comparable circumstances when those defendants assumed supervision, care, custody, and control of D.W.

69. When D.W. was a minor, Dave Rigby sexually abused him when Rigby was a Boy Scout leader and adult camp counselor at Siwanoy Camp.

70. D.W. was sexually abused by Rigby when D.W. was approximately 16 years old.

71. Based on the representations of the BSA and the Westchester Council that Rigby was safe and trustworthy, D.W. and his parents allowed D.W. to be under the supervision of, and in the care, custody, and control of, the BSA and the Westchester Council, including during the times when D.W. was sexually abused by Rigby.

72. Based on the representations of the BSA and the Westchester Council that Rigby was safe and trustworthy, D.W. and his parents allowed D.W. to be under the supervision of, and in the care, custody, and control of, Rigby, including during the times when D.W. was sexually abused by Rigby.

73. Neither D.W. nor his parents would have allowed him to be under the supervision of, or in the care, custody, or control of, the BSA, the Westchester Council, or Rigby if the BSA or the Westchester Council had disclosed to D.W. or his parents that Rigby was not safe and was not trustworthy, and that he in fact posed a danger to D.W. in that Rigby was likely to sexually abuse D.W.

74. Neither D.W. nor his parents would have paid the BSA or the Westchester Council to allow him to be a member of their Boy Scout Troop if the BSA or the Westchester Council had disclosed to D.W. or his parents that Rigby was not safe and was not trustworthy, and that he in fact posed a danger to D.W. in that Rigby was likely to sexually abuse D.W.

75. Neither D.W. nor his parents would have paid the BSA or the Westchester Council to allow him to be a member of their Boy Scout Troop if the BSA or the Westchester Council had disclosed to D.W. or his parents that the BSA knew for decades that hundreds or thousands of sexual predators, like Rigby, were using their position as a Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer to groom and to sexually abuse children.

76. No parent of ordinary prudence in comparable circumstances would have allowed D.W. to be under the supervision of, or in the care, custody, or control of, the BSA, the Westchester Council, or Rigby if the BSA or the Westchester Council had disclosed to D.W. or his parents that Rigby was not safe and was not trustworthy, and that he in fact posed a danger to D.W. in that Rigby was likely to sexually abuse him.

77. In approximately 1976, Rigby exploited the trust and authority vested in him by the BSA and the Westchester Council by grooming D.W. to gain his trust and to obtain control over him as part of Rigby's plan to sexually molest and abuse D.W. and other children, including those who participated in the Scouting program offered by the BSA and the Westchester Council.

78. Rigby used his position of trust and authority as a Scout leader, camp counselor, or volunteer of the BSA and of the Westchester Council to groom D.W. and to sexually abuse him multiple times at Camp Siwanoy, including when D.W. was under the supervision of, and in the care, custody, or control of, the BSA, the Westchester Council, and Rigby.

79. Upon information and belief, prior to the times mentioned herein, Rigby was a known sexual abuser of children.

80. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times, defendants, their agents, servants, and employees, knew or should have known that Rigby was a known sexual abuser of children.

81. Upon information and belief, at all relevant times, it was reasonably foreseeable to defendants, their agents, servants, and employees that Rigby's sexual abuse of children would likely result in injury to others, including the sexual abuse of D.W. and other children by Rigby.

82. Upon information and belief, in approximately 1976, defendants, their agents, servants, and employees knew or should have known that Rigby was sexually abusing D.W. and other children at Westchester Council and elsewhere.

83. Upon information and belief, defendants, their agents, servants, and employees knew or should have known that the sexual abuse by Rigby of D.W. was ongoing.

84. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, knew or should have known before and during Rigby's sexual abuse of D.W. that Scout leaders, camp counselors, volunteers, and other persons serving the BSA and the Westchester Council had used their positions with those defendants to groom and to sexually abuse children.

85. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, knew or should have known before and during Rigby's sexual abuse of D.W. that such Scout leaders, volunteers, and other persons could not be "cured" through treatment or counseling.

86. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, concealed the sexual abuse of children by Rigby in order to conceal their own bad acts in failing to protect children from him, to protect their reputation, and to prevent victims of such sexual abuse by him and other Scout leaders and volunteers from coming forward during the extremely limited statute of limitations prior to the enactment of the CVA, despite knowing that Rigby and other abusers in their ranks would continue to molest children.

87. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, consciously and recklessly disregarded their knowledge that Rigby would use his position with the defendants to sexually abuse children, including D.W.

88. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, disregarded their knowledge that Rigby would use his position with them to sexually abuse children, including D.W.

89. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, acted in concert with each other or with Rigby to conceal the danger that Rigby posed to children, including D.W., so that Rigby could continue serving them despite their knowledge of that danger.

90. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, knew that their negligent, reckless, and outrageous conduct would inflict severe emotional and psychological distress, as well as personal physical injury, on others, including D.W., and he did in fact suffer severe emotional and psychological distress and personal physical injury as a result of their wrongful conduct.

91. Upon information and belief, the BSA and the Westchester Council, their agents, servants, and employees, concealed the sexual abuse of children by Scout leaders, volunteers, and other persons serving the BSA and the Westchester Council in order to conceal their own bad acts in failing to protect children from being abused, to protect their reputation, and to prevent victims of such sexual abuse from coming forward during the extremely limited statute of limitations prior to the enactment of the CVA, despite knowing that those Scout leaders, volunteers, and other persons would continue to molest children.

92. By reason of the wrongful acts of the BSA and the Westchester Council as detailed herein, D.W. sustained physical and psychological injuries, including but not limited to, severe emotional and psychological distress, humiliation, fright, dissociation, anger, depression, anxiety, family turmoil and loss of faith, a severe shock to his nervous system, physical pain and mental anguish, and emotional and psychological damage, and, upon information and belief, some or all of these injuries are of a permanent and lasting nature, and D.W. has and/or will become obligated to expend sums of money for treatment.

VI. CAUSES OF ACTION AS TO PLAINTIFF D.W.

A. FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION – NEGLIGENCE

93. Plaintiff D.W. repeats and re-alleges all of his allegations above and below.

94. The BSA and the Westchester Council had a duty to take reasonable steps to protect plaintiff D.W., a child, from foreseeable harm when he was under their supervision and in their care, custody, and control.

95. The BSA and the Westchester Council also had a duty to take reasonable steps to prevent Rigby from using the tasks, premises, and instrumentalities of his position as an adult camp counselor at Siwanoy Camp with the defendants to target, groom, and sexually abuse children, including D.W.

96. The BSA and the Westchester Council were supervising D.W., and had care, custody, and control of D.W., when he was a paying member of their Boy Scout Troop or participating in their Scouting activities, including when he attended Scout Camp at Camp Siwanoy, during which time those defendants had a duty to take reasonable steps to protect him.

97. These circumstances created a special relationship between the BSA and D.W., and between the Westchester Council and D.W., which imposed on each of those defendants a duty to exercise the degree of care of a parent of ordinary prudence in comparable circumstances.

98. The BSA and the Westchester Council breached each of the foregoing duties by failing to exercise reasonable care to prevent Rigby from harming D.W., including sexually abusing him.

99. In breaching their duties, including hiring, retaining, and failing to supervise Rigby, giving him access to children, entrusting their tasks, premises, and instrumentalities to him, failing to train their personnel in the signs of sexual predation and to protect children from sexual abuse and other harm, failing to warn D.W., his parents, and other parents of the danger of sexual abuse, and failing to create a safe and secure environment for D.W. and other children who were under their supervision and in their care, custody, and control, the BSA and the Westchester Council created a risk that D.W. would be sexually abused by Rigby. The BSA and the Westchester Council through their actions and inactions created an environment that placed D.W. in danger of unreasonable risks of harm under the circumstances.

100. In breaching their duties, including hiring, retaining, and failing to supervise Rigby, giving him access to children, entrusting their tasks, premises, and instrumentalities to him, failing to train their personnel in the signs of sexual predation and to protect children from sexual abuse and other harm, failing to warn D.W., his parents, and other parents of the danger of sexual abuse, and failing to create a safe and secure environment for D.W. and other children who were under their supervision and in their care, custody, and control, the BSA and the Westchester Council acted willfully and with conscious disregard for the need to protect D.W. The BSA and the Westchester Council through their actions and inactions created an environment that placed D.W. in danger of unreasonable risks of harm under the circumstances.

101. It was reasonably foreseeable that defendants' breach of these duties of care would result in the sexual abuse of D.W.

102. As a direct and proximate result of the acts and omissions of the BSA and the Westchester Council, Rigby groomed and sexually abused D.W., which has caused D.W. to suffer general and special damages as more fully described herein.

B. SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION – OUTRAGE AND INTENTIONAL INFLICTION OF EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

103. Plaintiff D.W. repeats and re-alleges all of his allegations above and below.

104. The BSA and the Westchester Council engaged in reckless, extreme, and outrageous conduct by providing Rigby with access to children, including plaintiff D.W., despite knowing that he would likely use his position to groom and to sexually abuse them, including D.W. Their misconduct was so shocking and outrageous that it exceeds the reasonable bounds of decency as measured by what the average member of the community would tolerate and demonstrates an utter disregard by them of the consequences that would follow.

105. The BSA and the Westchester Council engaged in reckless, extreme, and outrageous conduct by representing to D.W. and his family that Rigby was safe and trustworthy, and that all Scout leaders and volunteers were safe and trustworthy, despite the fact that these defendants knew that sexual predators, like Rigby, were using their positions in Scouting to groom and to sexually abuse children. Their misconduct was so shocking and outrageous that it exceeds the reasonable bounds of decency as measured by what the average member of the community would tolerate and demonstrates an utter disregard by them of the consequences that would follow.

106. As a result of this reckless, extreme, and outrageous conduct, Rigby used his position with the defendant to gain access to D.W. and to sexually abuse him.

107. The BSA and the Westchester Council knew that this reckless, extreme, and outrageous conduct would inflict severe emotional and psychological distress, including personal physical injury, on others, and D.W. did in fact suffer severe emotional and psychological distress and personal physical injury as a result, including severe mental anguish, humiliation and emotional and physical distress.

VII. CPLR 1603 – NO APPORTIONMENT OF LIABILITY

108. Pursuant to CPLR 1603, the foregoing causes of action are exempt from the operation of CPLR 1601 by reason of one or more of the exemptions provided in CPLR 1602, including but not limited to, CPLR 1602(2), CPLR 1602(5), 1602(7) and 1602(11), thus precluding defendants from limiting their liability by apportioning some portion of liability to any joint tortfeasor.

VIII. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

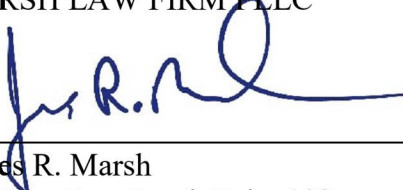

109. Plaintiff demands judgment against the defendants named in his causes of action, together with compensatory and punitive damages to be determined at trial, and the interest, cost and disbursements pursuant to their causes of action, and such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

110. Plaintiff specifically reserves the right to pursue additional causes of action, other than those outlined above, that are supported by the facts pleaded or that may be supported by other facts learned in discovery.
